Powerful footsteps walk Tomahawk Trail, footsteps whose rhythms are dictated by discipline, ingenuity and courage: the components of the trail.

Mr. William King is a man whose every footstep beats out these components.

DISCIPLINE. A 1944 Toms River High School graduate, Mr. King served in the Navy, co-piloted a blimp, took computer and library science courses, learned carpentry, painting and plano, and taught himself to play organ.

INGENUITY. Mr. King helped modernize High School South. A business teacher in 1959, by 1969 he was establishing a data-processing class, the district's first computer course. He also developed South's interclass television system, another district

COURAGE. While in the Navy, Mr. King risked everything in experiments with underwater explosives to clear beaches of obstructions to American ships. Upon his discharge, he joined an advertising agency which used blimps. After learning to maneuver these crafts, Mr. King often sat in back, dangling his feet through an open door.

ACCOMPLISHMENT. This is the definite echo of the footsteps of a man who today is a Media Specialist; who achieved Naval and business success; who taught and began classes; whose artwork is displayed publicly; and who restored his old Victorian home.

They are footsteps that help set the beat of Tomahawk Trail: the beat of Indian Pride.

We hear its strain as soon as we enter: the heritage pulsating from Tomahawk Trail. It began its beat almost 100 years ago to the moccasin-clad footsteps of the Indian and the Princess. As years passed and others followed these first two, the beat changed its tempo to keep stride. Yet its message remained constant: the tradition of Indian pride.

We walk along Tomahawk Trail, mindful first that our steps fall in line behind those of the Indian, the Princess and others who preceded us and second, that our steps set the beat for those who will follow us.

This awareness rises up: the tradition of Indian pride will build us- and we will build the tradition.

The creation flows from class to club to sport as one after another strives for personal best

The process continues until one precise moment when all forces synchronize the best: The Pride of the Tribe

Listening closely, we discover that this beat does not rise up from one single source, Rather, it is a composition

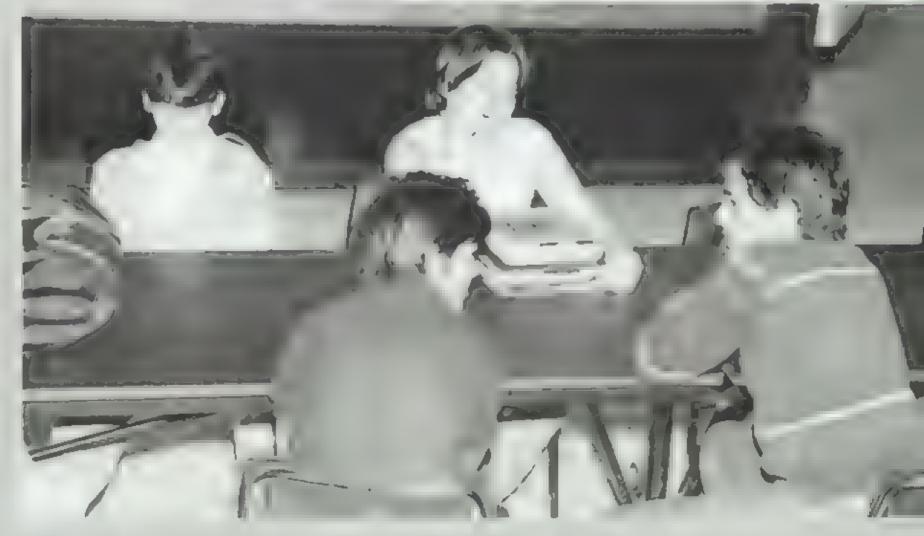

As we each find our places in the sports and clubs where we can meet the challenges that cause us to reach for greater heights, we help create the composition.

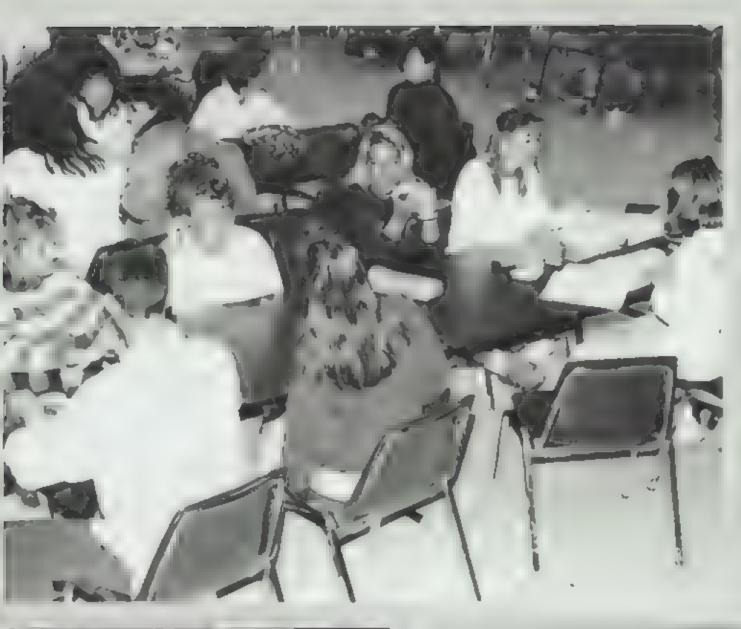

Each class hears the beat rerespond with enthusiasm.

Often their steps falter- sometimes sound; each class responds in its racing ahead, sometimes falling beown way. The newest members of hind the pace the beat sets. Indian the tribe hear with eagemess and determination propels them to continue

They study the steps of those before them. In time they se pace with them. The freshmer learn their first lesson from the beat; the stride of the pride.

No less eagerly or enthusiastically, the sophomores hear the beat. They respond with developing sophistication.

Accustomed now to the beat, they follow confidently. With an awakening maturity, they hear its next lesson.

Each one has his own strengths. Each one has particular talents. Each one is unique

Each one has his own sound to bring to the beat

Tomahawk Trail carries these unique sounds Here, cashmere confronts leather and bobbed hair brushes against spiked

Lockers open to show the uniqueness of the travelers. One locker opens to show a poster of Bon Jovi; another reveals the Beastle Boys, A surfer rides the waves in one locker while a gymnast mounts the beam in another inside, the books the lockers hold show further distinctions. Book titles ranging from computer programming to beauty culture to physics to creative writing show the distinctiveness of the pursuits of those who study them.

Each expression on Tomahawk Trail is distinctive but none is dissonant. All blend together to beautify the sound of the beat of Indian pride with harmony.

JUN I O R E E R M A

That harmony is the next lesson the beat teaches. It is a lesson the juniors hear best Sensing that the beat that taught them to keep stride with tradition and taught them to build upon that tradition now begins to lead them to the end of Tomahawk Trail, they fix their gaze upon the future. The trails it offers do not show themselves yet One thing is clear The trails before them have beats of their own. Sure of Tomahawk Trail's beat, the juniors will not forsake it. Rather they will play it out on these new trails to create a greater harmony

They carry that surety into their senior year. In this final stage, with each step forward they take one glance back.

Not yet certain of where they are going, they are certain of where they have been

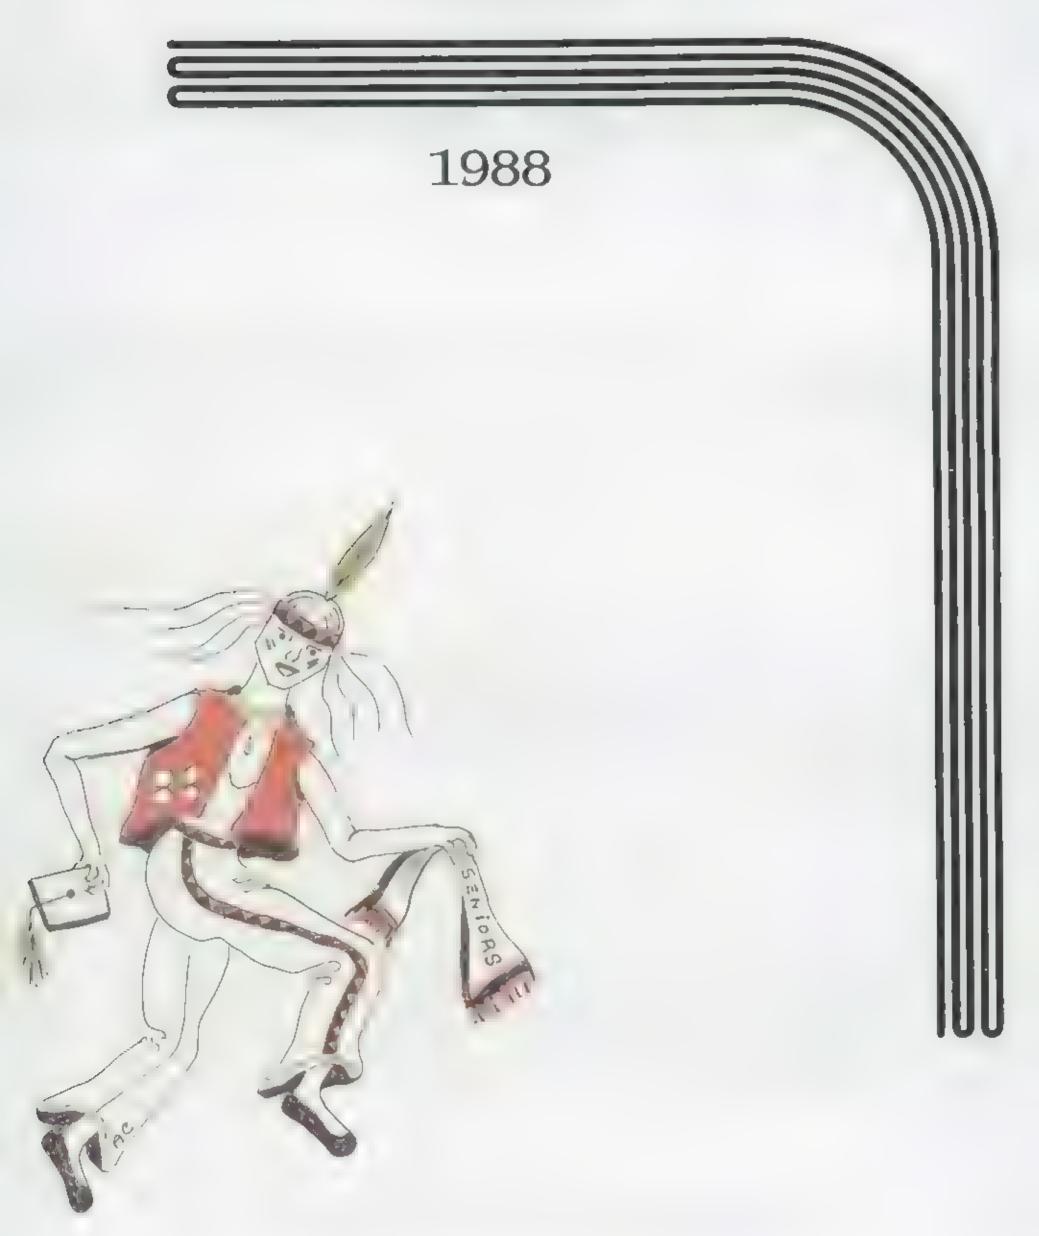

Not yet sure of what they will find, they are sure of what they have found

Not yet positive of what they will be, they are positive of who they are They are the Indian: The Pride of the Tribe

The beat leads them forward- to their beginning

SENIOR WEEK

It was Nerd Day at High School South. Early in the morning, Charles Nerdman and Chris Nerdosky wandered into the Cedar Chest office where they met with these questions:

How long did it take you to get dressed? Charles (shyly): Pass. Chris (taking out his calculator): 14.6 minutes.

Where did you get your clothes? Charles: Specialty shops. I like to keep up with the latest fashions. Chris: I go to the same place as Charles.

Do you like school? Chris (excitedly): I love school! Charles: I like it a whole bunch.

What is in your hair? Charles: It's natural. Do you have any girlfriends? Charles (aghast): What? Huh? Chris (embarrassed): Golly, no.

Have you ever had detention? Chris (shocked at idea): No!

What do you think it is like? Charles (disdainfully): ... in there with ax murderers, people making noise, throwing paper.

After this question, Charles checked his watch, it read 7:25 a.m., just one minute past the beginning of homeroom.

Charles (horrified): OH NOI We're going to be late- we've never been late before!

With that, Nerdman and Nerdosky flew through the yearbook office doorway and disappeared.

"I WOULD LIKE TO FEEL I MADE AN IMPRESSION."

During her fourteen years at thigh School South, art teacher Mrs. Angie Cazzola has seen many students make their passage along Tomahawk Trail. She has witnessed changes in social values and popular rock groups cause drastic changes in students attitudes.

During the 50's, students were interested in classical art. In the 60 s and 70's, the world was rebellious and this was reflected in the students' art work. Now in the 80 s. students' interests are both more technical and supernatural. Mrs. Cazzola has seen several high School South graduates go on to professional art careers. Phil Bruno is a fashion designer. Scott Johnston is a computer graphics designer. Joey Floras creates logos for RCA. Most students work in communications and advertising. It has been a pleasure working at High School South and with the teens," Mrs. Cazzola states. "I would like to feel I made an impression on the teens so that, even if they have not grown artistically, they have grown as individuals."

Over the years many changes have occurred in South's building. One change is the addition of the cafetorium which contains a stage Mrs. Beth Morrison, theater arts teacher, says the stage is a big improvement because it gives students the opportunity to practice and perform during school hours whereas, in the past, they had to commute to other schools for use of their stages.

Although the stage is not without problems, improvements are gradually being made. Other areas of improvement are students participation in High School South theater itself. Mrs. Morrison notes that participation has improved greatly since her first year at South

During the first year, there were between 25 and 30 students involved in theater arts. This year, there are more than 70. The Forensics Team, which Mrs. Morrison started last year, has already doubled its enrollment

Mrs. Morrison looks forward to the day when one of South's thespians leaves Tomahawk Trall for Broadway's Great White Way

The significant sophomores of Toms River South have earned themselves a reputation for being aggressively school-and community-spirit-

Besides having participated in such standard fund-raising projects as candy, magazine, and flower sales, the sophomores introduced Data Match, a computerized compatibility match-up, to Toms River South,

As an outreach to the community this year, the sophomores had the Special Education Department of South grow plants for them which they potted in festive Christmas holiday planters and distributed to residents of a local nursing home.

Students involved in the Cedar Chest assume the awesome responsibility of continuing a tradition of excellence for South's yearbook. Success in this responsibility requires dedication and determination

Cedar Chest members dedicate themselves to the task of taking all that High School South is, compiling It, and presenting It in an annual publication. For this, staff members dedicate their time, their journalistic talents and their enthusiasm furthermore staffers exhibit the determination to improve the yearbook constantly. They know that in order for the Cedar Chest to present South's best it must be part of South's best

Members of the Cedar Chest staff find the creative process of preparing a book for publication very rewarding. Most rewarding of all is the day they hold in their hands the results of their creativity, bound in leather and ready for autographs. On that day they know they have become part of the Indian tradition of excellence

SKILLS ...

Toms River South students receive job training in both in Ocean County Vocational School program and the COE program COE, Cooperative Education, is a work-study program which allows students to develop their skills while earning salaries at banks, insurance companies and the Board of Education To qualify for the program, students must be enrolled in business courses. They may sign up for the program in their junior year to gain acceptance into it in their senior year Program coordinator Mrs. Ruth Lewis supervises the entire application and interview process students engage in to acquire the jobs at the businesses that participate in the COE program. Once hired, the students earn the salaries regularly established by the cooperating business

By the end of their senior year, many of the COE students have proven themselves such valuable employees that the participating businesses keep them on their payrolls.

CULTURAL OLYMPICS

If a student at Toms River South has a unique talent, the place for him to show it is at the Cultural Olympics.

Run every spring, the Cultural Olympics provides students with a showcase for their talents. Acts in the Olympics range from song and dance to comedians.

Always well supported, the Cultural Olympics grows in popularity every year.

It began five years ago with an application to the Tournament of Ruses Committee a resume of accomplishments, a band video and photo and evidence of the Marching Indians fund-raising provess to pay the country to the Ruse Lowership and they be solected.

A year later, a response to the application came, it was a request from the committee for an update on the application

Finally in the summer of 1986 the Rose Bowl Committee called to ask Tom River South band director Mr. Jack Milkovitz if the India's were still interested in marching in the Rose Bowl Parade. His answer was an enthusiastic "yes."

Tourism of of Rises and ast apresentance To Wapschill carefully reviewed South a resume, compared it to the resumes of the almost three hundred other schools from the East who were applying for the parade and made his recommendation to the committee that South a band be accepted. The committee agreed and, on December 15, 1986, notified a jubiliant Mr. Milkovitz of its decision.

et note us prime to de la langua prime print de la code et note us prime de la subsection de la code de la cod

Meanwhile Mr. Milkovitz and assistant director Mr. James Mobiey focused on developing the band's routine for the parade. They selected three songs: National Embtern as a march; This is My Country as a patriotic; and 'Quejada' as a drum corps

On December 28, 1987, 180 band members, sixteen chaperones and 220 band parents gathered at Toms River South to begin their journey to the Rose Bowl. Fight hours later, they arrived at Newport Beach where they would stay while in California and readled themselves for the parade.

Before the "main event" of the Rose Bowl Parade itself, the Indians marched in Disneyland in Anaheim. Although they found this exciting, it could not rival their enthusiasm for the Tournament of Roses Parade march to take place on New Year's Day.

The California sun shone brightly on January 1, 1988. The parade route glistened beneath its rays. The Marching Indians assembled on Pasadena Boulevard for their five-mile culmination of their five-year dream.

Unaware of the parade's theme until that day they learned it was fluanks to Communication. Their nautical sign flags perfectly developed this theme as they presented their own approach to communication to the television cameras en route.

After two-anti-a half hours of non-stop playing, the march was over fland members completed their stay in Cabiomia with visits to knott's Berry Farm Universal Studios, the Rose Bowl, Hollywood, and the Farmer's Market. On January 2, 1988, they returned home

The Marching Indians have not yet applied to participate in any other major parades. As Mr. Milkovitz explained. "This will be hard to top.

NATIONAL MERIT/GARDEN STATE DISTINGUISHED SCHOLARS

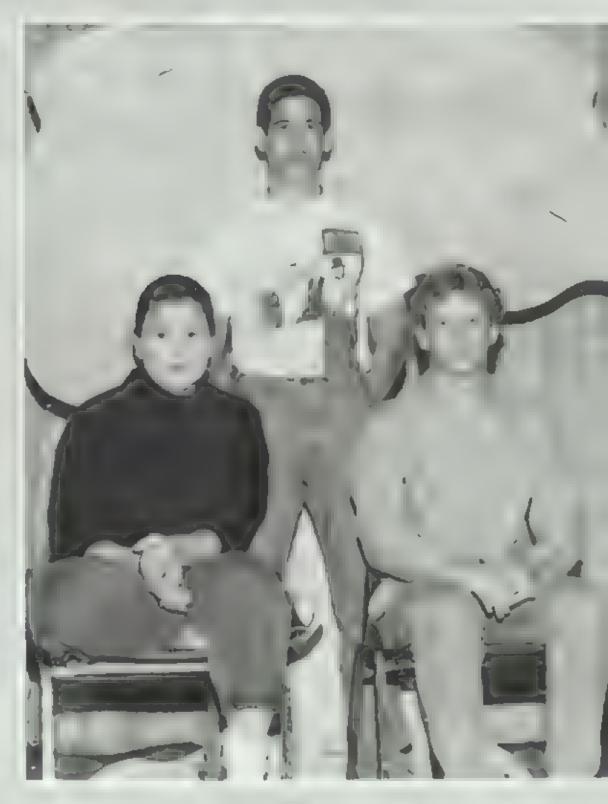

The Garden State Distinguished Scholar Program awards scholarships on the basis of students class ranks. Junior year SAT scores, and selection by their schools. Approximately 3200 students statewide receive these $1000 scholarships, renewable annually, that can only be used at New Jersey colleges and universities. The National Merit Scholarship Program is an independently-supported, merit based scholarship program which students may enter by taking the PSAT/NMSQT test in their junior year. An evaluating committee selects 15,000 out of more than one million students to be semifinalists. The semifinalists must then complete another application and essay to be selected as finalists when they qualify for scholarships ranging from

$500 to $8000 annually

SOUTH SOUTH SOUTH SOUTH SOUTH SOUTH SOUTH Final Record 10 wins: 1 to		BARCA Howell Bricktown

For the third year in a row, Toms River South's football team has been Class A South champions, Carrying on the winning tradition. Coach Chip La Barca led the team to a 10 and 1 season. The team finished first in the Shore and was unbeaten in the regular season for the second straight year

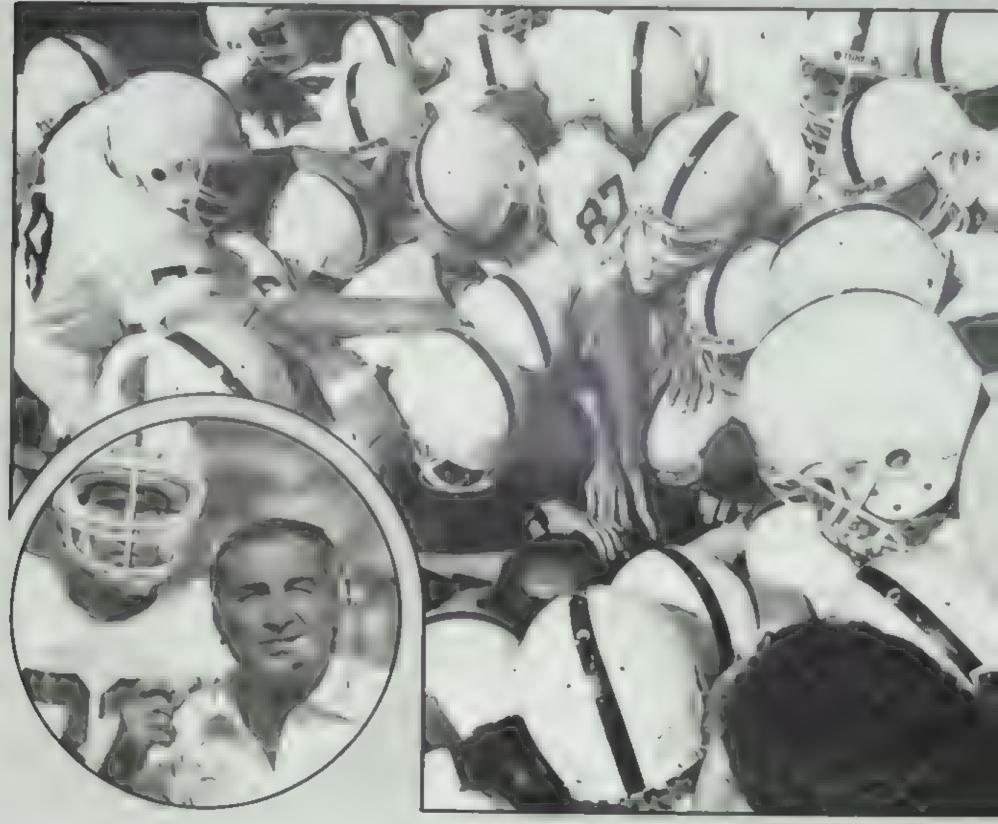

The captains were running back Pete Lamicella. MVP-awarded offensive tackle Brian Wilkinson, defensive tackle Mike Kennedy, Ilnebacker Chris Raichle, and flanker Chip Labarca, Linebacker Jeff Laing and quarterback Carlos Chico' Hemandez also made major contributions this season

Total group effort made this a great season South's "Death Valley" defense intimidated many teams this year. The offense, with its powerful line, led an awesome air and ground attack.

One of the greatest wins this year came against Toms River East, winning 54-0. Another great game was the 7-0 win over Brick Township which was the deciding game for the Class "A" South title

This was a banner year for Toms River South girls tennis Coach "Kenbo" Ashman added this season's record of filteen wins to his other coaching successes for an illustrious career total (thus far) of 130 victories!

Strong performances came from team captain Jane Ellis who played first singles. Jane was also the team s most valuable player.

Dominating first doubles were Nadine Patran and Karen Schuler who qualified for the All County first Team

Senior Jenn Terry and junior Linda Schuler played second doubles while Junior Emily Dupignac and freshman Marty Seaman showed their skill at second single and third single respectively.

The team is losing its four significant seniors after having contributed largely to the team's achievement of a final record of twelve wins and four losses this season

Senior captains Michele Slegmann, shot putter: Gina Russamano, distance; and middistance runner Pattl Rezac led the girls winter track team this year

The team consisted of four seniors and tenunderclassmen. The weight team was coached by Mr. lacullo, and the runners were guided by second-year coach, Mr. Green

A dominant runner in the hurdles, both county and statewide, was Jill Kartikas. She will return next year as a senior along with Helena Osborne

Luralene Jones and Shannon Sheppard had a strong showing in putting the shot, as well as Rosalyn Levens placing in the sprints

Once again, the track team was young but they improve every season

Toms River South's hockey team had one of the best records of its history. The team entered a new league this year. They played in a North Jersey league where they finished (6-7-1). Coach Reynolds worked very hard and was most dedicated to the players. Seniors Peter DoCarmo and Scott Bennett were captains and Senior Chris Raichle was the cocapiam. Their overall record was 6-12-1, Next year the team will be young, but they have great potential for the future

The boys and girls bowling teams both had the disadvantage of only having one senior each. The boys were led by standout senior captain Mike. Paccione, and the girls were guided by senior captain Dawn Sorian

Under the direction of Coach Ashman the boys bowling team placed second in the Neptune Invit and seventh out of thirty-seven in the Winter Classic Tourney, in So. Plainfield, They posted a strong winning record. The girls, on the other hand had a rebuilding season. The highlight wins of their season were against Lakewood and Manchester

For the boys strong returners will be Rich Augustino, John McDermott, Clint Adams, and Ted Schmitt. Power houses for the girls will be sophomore Jenn Valyo, and Junior Cheryl Zbranak

If there was a team low in numbers, it was the 1987-88 Wrestling Team. Although there were not many participants the boys who were there worked hard. Coach Johnson recalled this season as a rebuilding year.

The Senior Tri-Captains were Pete Chakonis, Harry Fischer and Doug LaPerry Fischer, Chakonis, and LaPerry all had respectable seasons

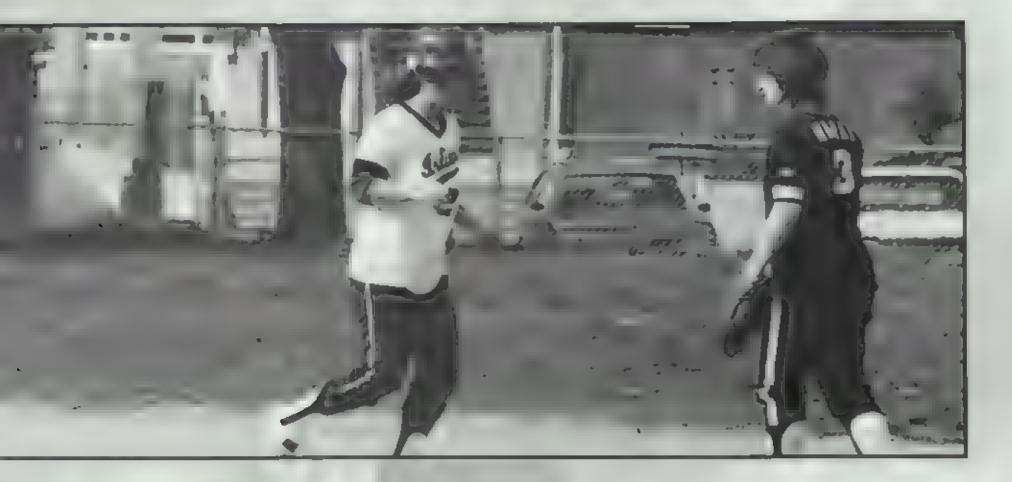

Returning to the districts will be the entire team, but Harry Fischer and Wes Kremple in particular hope to place ahead of last year's final rankings.

Ment year's standouts will be Maryin Thacter, Rich Ingenito, Joe Chakonis. Wes Kremple, and Joe Robertazzi Although this year's team enjoyed few highlights, there is a promising future in the air for the Wrestling Team

There was a time when cheerleading WAS girls sports. Now that girls can compete in other organized sports, cheerleading has had to upgrade its requirements to maintain its appear

White the "cheerleader look" requirement remains one of neatness, perkiness, and school spiritedness, its skill requirement demands higher level stunts that incorporate gymnastics moves

Toms River South cheerleaders receive Intensive training in precision moves at professional training camps. While the girls learn the moves the coaches learn how to spot them

The sound is the beat of traditions he does not recognize.
The sound is foreign to him.
He doubts that will ever change.
Cautiously, frightened, he steps; his feet falter on Tomahawk Trail

But he cannot match the others' steps:

I commot join their ways.

the state of them and walks, feeling the beat of Tomahawk Trail them. I with it he s part of it but care it find it on his own.

On his own he must walk slowly, but with each beat the trail is easier.

The by piece he joins it: he is part of Tomahawk Trail.

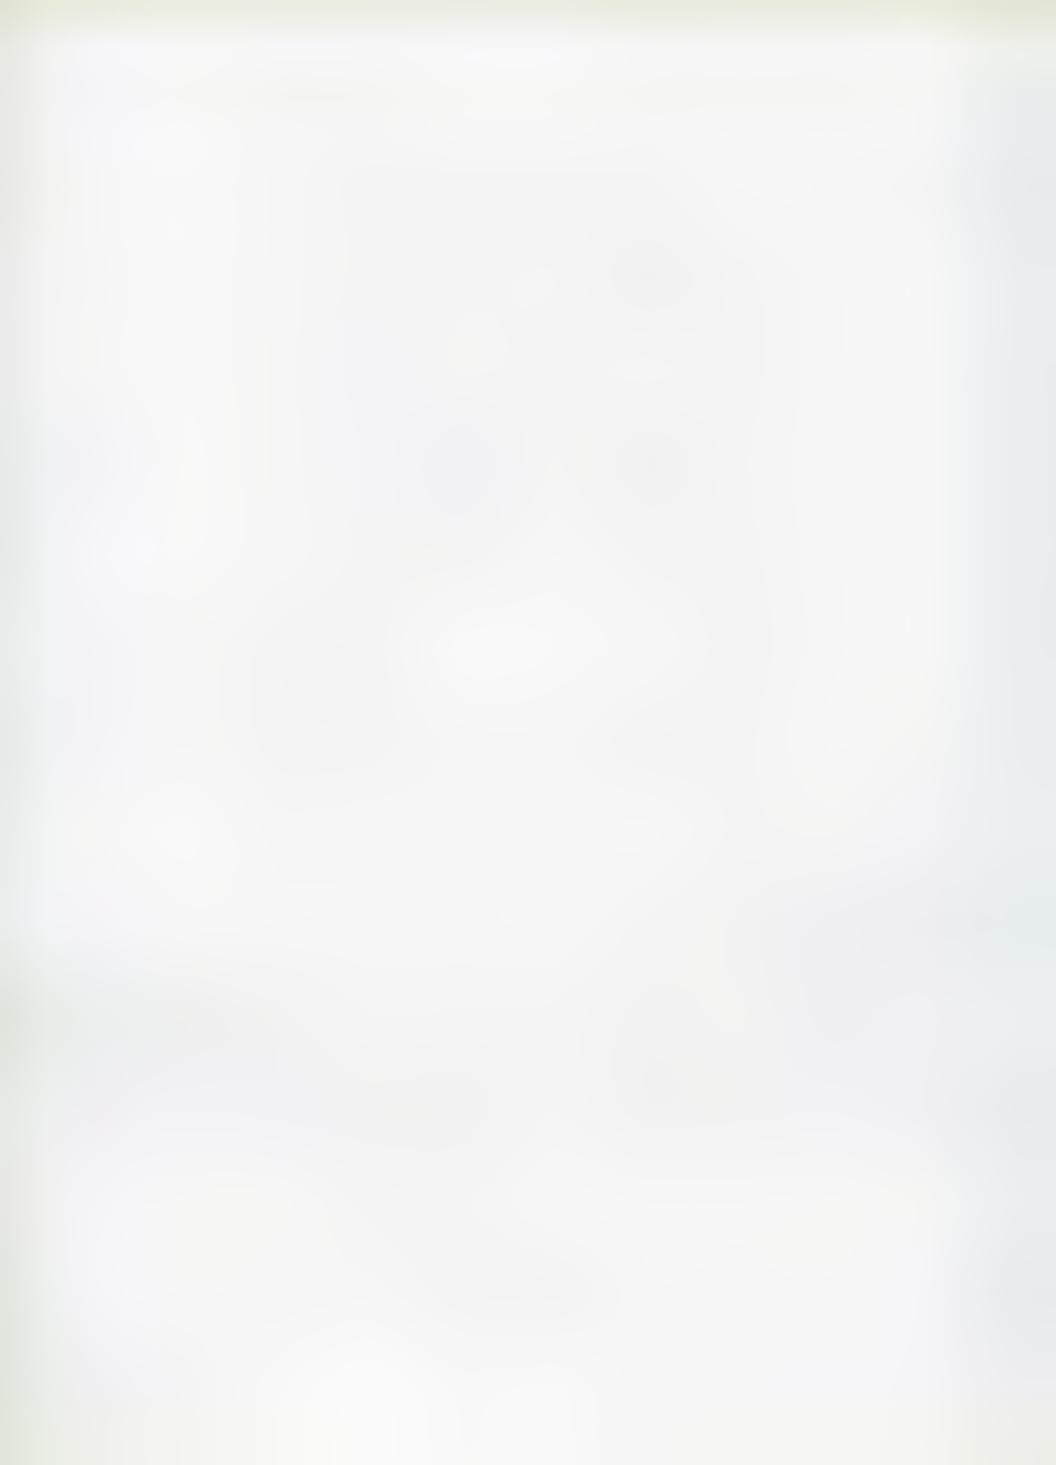

The man hes there contentedly, growing stronger with each step.

See the sine of could not follow is the march that he would lead.

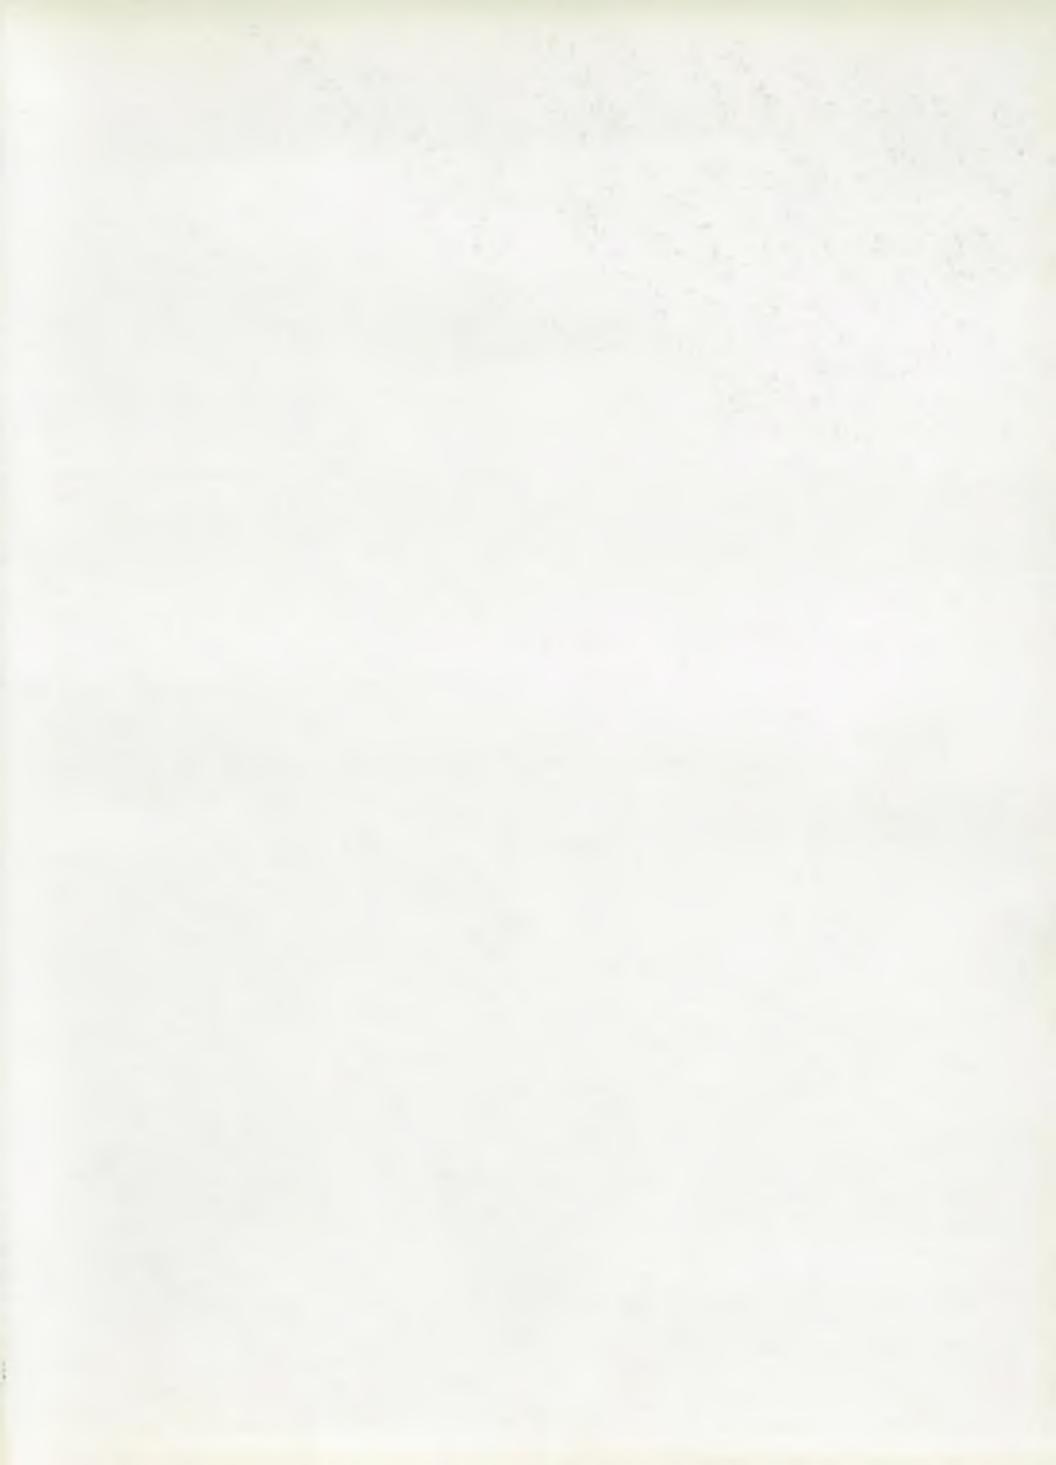

I could not steps: others follow in fashion.

New treasures for his own path; he wishes for his own traditions.
